HUGHES WILL BE THE ONLY BOSS IF HE'S ELECTED

There Will Be No Special Favors in His Administration.

Democratic Blunders Brought to Light in Cleveland Speech.

ADAMSON BILL SHOCKING

Firing of French Ambassador Blot on Wilson Regime.

Democrats Challenged to Deny "Personal War on Huerta."

BY WILLIAM HOSTER.
Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—Seven thousand people in the Army here cheered Charles E. Hughes' characterization of the Adamson bill as "the most shocking thing that has happened in my memory of political life."

Returning to the Mexican attack, Hughes challenged the administration to deny that it had sent the instructions to John Lind, uncovered the other day at South Bend and quoted by Hughes again, declaring that Huerta must get out of Mexico. He again laid the responsibility for anarchy and rapine in Mexico at the door of President Wilson.

Bestowing high praise on Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France when the Wilson administration took office and recalled in the midst of exciting duties in connection with the great war, Hughes said:

"It will ever remain a blot upon the present administration that it suffered him to be superseded at that critical time."

Finally, he seized upon the occasion of another tariff talk to serve notice upon Republican leaders generally that he is to be the boss, if elected, and that no special favors are to be expected.

To Owe no Favors.
"I had no special wish to be a candidate," he said, "no desire at all to be a candidate at this election because I know what the burdens of office are and I was very well content with the distinguished office which I had the privilege of holding. But I did not take this nomination and I have no desire to be elected, to pass out favors to any set of men in this country."

With regard to the John Lind instructions, he read once more the proposition Wilson is declared to have instructed Lind to lay before the minister of a foreign power as follows:

"Huerta will be put out if he does not get out—that is the preference of the president that it be accomplished by domestic means if possible, but if it cannot be done by domestic means, other means adequate for the purpose will be resorted to."

"We officiously intermeddled in Mexico's affairs," said Hughes. "Personal war was waged on Huerta."

Challenges Administration.
"Now, I referred to this the other night and a leading organ in New York City, which is a very strong supporter of the administration, at once inquired through its representatives whether or not that statement would be denied. According to the report in this newspaper in New York, it was said that the charge would be answered by the secretary of war, perhaps, or by the secretary of the navy. It did not say that it was France, it is not the point that it was Herrick, it is not the point that it was this country or that country; but I say that at the time of war to have this country represented in any foreign capital of a belligerent nation by a man so loved and treated as he was, was of the first importance to this country and it will ever remain a blot upon the present administration that it suffered him to be superseded at that critical time."

Niggardly Policy.
"That is not the way to advance American interests. Nobody in Europe could understand that. I venture to say that no one great nation except our own, would think of doing anything of that sort."

The meeting was the biggest and most enthusiastic Hughes has had in Ohio, which state is declared to be lukewarm toward him and to favor Wilson because "he kept us out of war."

There was little demonstration for the candidate along the street but the cheering for him lasted several minutes when he entered the hall, the big demonstration as usual, coming in response to his pledge to uphold the national honor.

Beginning the day at Findlay, he spoke successively at Bowling Green, Toledo, Fort Clinton, Sandusky and Elyria. At all of these places he was cordially received, but the feature of the day was the verbal combat Hughes had with a group of workingmen at the Willis-Overland plant at Toledo. He fought a drawn battle there at noon with about 500 partisans of Mr. Wilson.

Hughes had been warned against discussing the Adamson bill in Toledo, which is a hotbed of socialism, besides being a big industrial center and one of the biggest railroad centers in the middle west.

With his mind on the warning, Hughes plunged in.

Winding up in Ohio today, Hughes will reach Pittsburgh at noon and remain there until midnight, when he will move on east to Trenton, where he will open the Republican campaign in New Jersey Thursday morning.

Handle Dye Trade
American Manufacturers Rapidly Increase Output, Shown at Exhibition.

New York, Sept. 27.—The development of the American dye industry until it has reached 75 per cent of the maximum used in this country in 1913, was shown at the opening session of the American chemical society.

One year ago six manufacturers of dyestuffs exhibited their products at the first national chemical show. The number of American exhibitors at the present show is twenty-seven.

American manufacturers, however, are not making a great variety of colors. The special dyestuffs used for postage stamps and treasury bills are practically ignored by the new firms. The reason is that there is a better market for the cheaper and more popular grades.

John E. Gardin, vice president of the National City bank, in his address on "Chemistry and Banking," said the present war had taught this country its lesson in its dependence upon other nations, Germany especially, and the country would profit by this knowledge. He declared that a high duty on dyestuffs, to take effect after the war, was a step in the right direction.

Has Chance to Wield World Finance, Says Williams.

Put Soul of People Into Use of Dollars, He Pleads.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 27.—America today has a chance to win a place in the world of finance, never before held by any country, in the mighty task of reorganizing and re-establishing the nations of Europe. That was the word John Skelton, Williams, comptroller of the currency, brings to the American Bankers' convention now in session here. But, he warns the bankers against the "hard" terms at home or abroad in these momentous days to come, as did the bankers and money changers before banking advanced from a proscribed and furtive trade to an honored profession.

"Putting out the dangers of great wealth, Mr. Williams declared the 'great American soul must go in company with the great American dollar' and each prosperity to benefit the nation in a lasting manner."

"We have the people with the souls in them. We have the dollars beyond our most exaggerated hopes. If we put the soul of the people in the use and the application of the dollar, the best and noblest conceptions of the centuries will be fulfilled by us. And gentlemen, you govern the use of dollars."

To give an example of the inflated wealth of the nation Mr. Williams pointed out that the total deposits in American banks are about $100,000,000,000. If that amount should be withdrawn from them equal to the total resources at present of the Bank of England, Bank of France, Bank of Spain, Bank of Netherlands, Bank of Norway, Bank of Sweden, Bank of Switzerland, and the Imperial Bank of Japan, the deposits in the American banks still would be as great as they were three years ago.

PEACE WITH JAPS
Former Tokio Mayor Says Friendship Is Traditional.

Want Square Deal in U. S.—Would Not Take P. L.

New York, Sept. 27.—Baron Yoshikazu Sakakini, one of Japan's foremost economic forces, and a delegate to the recent economic conference of the allies in Paris, said in an interview at the Hotel Astor, that one of the world's biggest economic questions to be settled after the war was the status of Japanese in the United States.

The baron referred to the "justice and necessity" of the repeal of American laws regarded by the Japanese as discriminating against them. He thought this end would be obtained by peaceful means—through a common understanding of the two peoples of the world and purposes of the other.

He said the Japanese desired nothing of the United States except the same treatment accorded to other civilized peoples. He called "unjust and unfair" the law which differentiates Japanese from the citizens of other foreign countries.

He said America had profited by Japan's patrol of the far eastern waters, and that the United States would gain much by Japan's maintaining the "open door" into China, which he put forward as the sole aim of Tokio's participation in the affairs of China.

The baron is on his way home from the Paris conference. He arrived here Sunday and will spend two weeks in New York, after which he will go to Vancouver to sail for Japan.

He said the friendship of the Japanese and Americans was traditional and that it would always continue, provided the two people understood one another perfectly and he referred to the long history of the Japanese society in this country and of the American's friend society in Japan as important factors in bringing about a complete mutual understanding.

Can't Handle Philippines.
The baron was asked if Japan wanted the Philippines.

"They belong to America," he replied. "But if they were free?" he was asked.

"America will always have some sort of guardianship over the Philippines," he said. "America will not turn them over to the people are too irresponsible. No, I tell you, the Japanese have enough to do in Japan."

Baron Sakakini showed considerable feeling when he was asked if there was any truth in the oft-repeated reports that Japanese were among the officers of Mexican troops.

"That is not true," he said, emphatically. "It is absurd. I suppose some Mexicans have been taken for Japanese. That has happened before. If there are Japanese fighting in Mexico, which I don't believe, the Japanese government knows nothing whatever of it."

The baron characterized as canards reports that Japan had a coaling station or two in Mexico.

"Reports circulated in some of your newspapers do much harm to that feeling of mutual trust which must solve all differences that might arise between the two nations," he said.

Picture in Nude ELIMINATED FROM SCHOOL READERS

Los Angeles, Sept. 27.—Superintendent Rebok, of the Santa Monica schools, has won the discus throwing contest.

To be explicit, the state board of education has decided that the picture of the nude Greek discus thrower will be eliminated from the later editions of the sixth grade reader, now being used in the California schools. The action follows the demand made by Superintendent Rebok that the picture be eliminated from the readers.

He had the pictures cut from all of the books used in the Santa Monica schools. He took the stand that the picture was not a proper one to put before children of adolescent age. A state-wide controversy resulted.
